How can we redefine the office to support the diverse and unique needs of today's workforce?

The workplace matters more than ever, but yesterday's office is not serving the workers of today. Collaborative spaces to connect with coworkers are scarce, as are places to focus without disruption. And although leaders feel that creativity is an essential skill that can support company growth and profitability, only 39% consider their company to be creative. Meanwhile, 69% of employees feel they are not living up to their creative potential, and 75% report that their workspaces aren't sparking creativity.

Developed from research insights and a core set of design principles, Steelcase and Microsoft have collaborated to create an ecosystem of interrelated places and devices to support the different stages and activities of creative work. When designed with a holistic vision that considers and accommodates the ever-changing needs of people, technology and space, creative spaces can enhance engagement and inspire workers to achieve more.

This course outlines the drivers and disruptive of the shifting needs and demands of workers, and provides an overview of the creative process. It also identifies three design principles, key spatial attributes and five space typologies that can support creativity in the workplace.

Join us in this discussion as we explore ways to design inspiring workspaces that provide choice and control to bring people back to the office.

Generation Z: The Connected Generation, by Joel Brown, Steelcase

When?

Friday, May 24th,
 from 10:15 am to 11:15 am

Where?

In 2018, Generation Z will enter the workplace for the first time. With Generation Z representing over 28% of the global population, their influence on where and how we work will be significant. Generation Z thinks differently than previous generations - and they work differently too. They expect constant feedback, yet want their voices heard and valued. They are experiential learners with a strong entrepreneurial spirit. Plus, they are constantly connected to the world around them through technology.

Steelcase research shows what organizations need to consider when integrating Generation Z into the workplace and the changes that may occur in organizational culture, work processes and technology. This course explores the behaviours, motivations, expectations and values of Generation Z, and suggests ways organizations and businesses can adapt to their needs and interests to ensure success for all.

Aging in Style Kitchens and Bathrooms - Residential Universal Design, by Beverly Vosko, Interior Design-ED (Webinar Format)

Elders are living longer, healthier lives. Today there are more elderly people than ever before and statistics say that 84% of those seniors wish to remain in their homes as they age. In order for them to do so, many of their homes will need to be adapted to be functional for them as they age. Aging in Style Kitchens and Bathrooms- Residential Universal Design is a comprehensive analysis on how to make both kitchens and bathrooms look good yet function for clients of all ages, from 4-104, and to continue to function for them as they age or potentially become ill or disabled. Designers will learn why it is important for them to incorporate beautiful yet functional Universal Design features, spatial techniques and design ideas into all of their client's kitchen remodels, and exactly how to do so.

Events Descriptions

IDNB-DINB Interns & Students Roundtable

When?

Thursday, May 23rd,
from 5:30 pm
to 6:30 pm

Where?

CCNB Dieppe;
Room TBD

Why?

1 non-IDCEC Credit

This event is for our association's student and intern members to learn about various subjects relating to our profession; an opportunity to have a discussion with other members and ask questions. The session will be lead by Fabie Dupéré, IDNB-DINB Intern Representative/Intern Member and Rachael Quackenbush, IDNB-DINB Secretary/Intern Member.

On the agenda, we will talk about the NCIDQ Certification and the process to get there; IDNB-DINB Registered Member Kim Murphy, who is the NCIDQ delegate for the association will also be there to answer questions and give out tips and tricks. We will also have a chat about our continued education system, the Interior Design Continuing Education Council (IDCEC), how to navigate its system, how many credits you are required to collect at every cycle and the cycle periods themselves.

Tour of Faubourg du Mascaret, Retirement Living Establishment

When?

Thursday, May 23rd,
from 7:00 pm
to 9:00 pm

Where?

171 Morton Ave,
Moncton

Why?

2 non-IDCEC Credits

Le Faubourg du Mascaret, one of Shannex's latest retirement facilities, is opening its doors for the Interior Designers of New Brunswick to explore the modern challenges of institutional design.

Built right on the Université de Moncton grounds, the highly praised institution offers several levels of care within its operation.

Let's have a look at one of the most recent retirement living establishments in the province, and how the state-of-the-art community was designed to best serve the aging population of the Moncton area.

IDNB-DINB Tabletop Show

When?

Friday, May 23rd,
from 3:30 pm
to 6:30 pm

Where?

Wingate Dieppe;
Beauséjour /
Champlain Rooms

Why?

3 non-IDCEC Credits

This event is by far an industry favorite. Our awesome manufacturers, suppliers, vendors gather their best items for us to explore. The tabletop show is the best place to learn about all the new products, the latest trends, and it gives our design community the chance to catch up and network as well.

It usually starts with a welcome word from the association's President, Rachel Mitton, and the show goes on for three hours. There will be hors d'oeuvres served, and a bar available in the room as well.

IDNB-DINB Annual General Meeting

When?

Saturday, May 25th,
from 9:00 am
to 2:00 pm

Where?

Wingate Dieppe;
Champlain Room

Why?

3 non-IDCEC Credits

This is the association's yearly gathering to talk about events that took place in our community in the past year, to discuss and vote on pressing subjects, as well as to plan for upcoming activities. The board members also present their yearly reports.

The Annual General Meeting is open to IDNB-DINB members only; Student and Intern Members are welcomed, but only Registered Members have voting power for executive decisions.
